7:25-35 I. We do well to remain single.

“Now concerning the betrothed, I have no command from the Lord, but I give my judgment as one who by the Lord’s mercy is trustworthy. I think that in view of the present distress it is good for a person to remain as he is. Are you bound to a wife? Do not seek to be free. Are you free from a wife? Do not seek a wife. But if you do marry, you have not sinned, and if a betrothed woman marries, she has not sinned....”

:28b

A. The single man avoids some worldly troubles.

“Yet those who marry will have worldly troubles, and I would spare you that.”

:29-31

B. The end is near.

“This is what I mean, brothers: the appointed time has grown very short. From now on, let those who have wives live as though they had none, and those who mourn as though they were not mourning, and those who rejoice as though they were not rejoicing, and those who buy as though they had no goods, and those who deal with the world as though they had no dealings with it. For the present form of this world is passing away.”

cf. Romans 13:11; II Corinthians 6:10; I Peter 4:7; I John 2:17

:32-35

C. The single man stays focused on the Lord.

“I want you to be free from anxieties. The unmarried man is anxious about the things of the Lord, how to please the Lord. But the married man is anxious about worldly things, how to please his wife, and his interests are divided. And the unmarried or betrothed woman is anxious about the things of the Lord, how to be holy in body and spirit. But the married woman is anxious about worldly things, how to please her husband. I say this for your own benefit, not to lay any restraint upon you, but to promote good order and to secure your undivided devotion to the Lord.”

cf. Matthew 19:12; Luke 10:38-42

:36-38 II. We are free to marry in the Lord.

“If anyone thinks that he is not behaving properly toward his betrothed, if his passions are strong, and it has to be, let him do as he wishes: let them marry – it is no sin. But whoever is firmly established in his heart, being under no necessity but having his desire under control, and has determined this in his heart, to keep her as his betrothed, he will do well. So then, he who marries his betrothed does well, and he who refrains from marriage will do even better.

cf. Hebrews 13:4

:39-40 III. We are free to remarry in the Lord.

“A wife is bound to her husband as long as he lives. But if her husband dies, she is free to be married to whom she wishes, only in the Lord. Yet in my judgment she is happier if she remains as she is. And I think that I too have the Spirit of God.”

cf. Malachi 2:10-12; Romans 7:2

Second Presbyterian Church’s standard: “The remarriage of divorced persons may be sanctioned by the Church, in keeping with the Word of God, and after proper deliberation concerning each person’s eligibility and suitability for marriage. Clearly, in the case of adultery or other gross sexual immorality or of willful, irremediable, and prolonged desertion which cannot be remedied in any way by the Church, the offended party may divorce and after the divorce may marry someone else, as if the offending party were dead.”
